

7 Quick Takes Friday: 7 highlights from throwing a multi- or non-themed 5th birthday party

This is Christmas program week for us, with one beautiful one down and one to go today. We are excited for our younger son's wise man appearance, especially since he lost that very job last year. Where has Advent gone?

Before Christmas Day arrives, I want to share some of the birthday party fun we had here last weekend. Our little guy couldn't settle on a theme—we went from Frozen to the Ravens to Pokemon to World War II and beyond—so we decided to celebrate everything he likes. And that turned out to be just right for him.