

7 Quick Takes Friday: Bedtime complaints, school supply shopping, exploring Baltimore, and our new angel statue

One night you're trying to get your children to fall asleep when one of them says, "My nose really hurts when I push it here." You look at his nose, which looks fine. You could worry. You could google "nose soreness" and read about all the horrible illnesses it could be. Or you