

7 Quick Takes Friday: Brothers Day celebrations, a new school year, labeling school supplies, confusing conversations, and more

Yesterday we celebrated Brothers Day. If it's not a holiday you've heard of, you're not alone. It's the anniversary of the day our sons met each other. John and I didn't take Leo with us on our adoption trip to China to bring Daniel home, so they met when we