

7 Quick Takes Friday: Last day of school, releasing our butterflies, sad caterpillar news, counting angels, Weirdo Mister Fidget, and more

It's the last day of school! I am so very sad to see first grade end. After the excitement of kindergarten last year, first grade—at least from this parent's perspective—was a breeze. Leo could do his homework in the after-school program. His teacher emailed once a week about the assignments for