

7 Quick Takes Friday: Sprinting into kindergarten, a castle of cards, a dancing flamingo, a Labor Day sandwich, and silly nicknames

I'm just barely getting this in under the wire, but this seems to be a day when I am behind on things. This evening I delivered belated birthday gifts that should have been given in July, which isn't too terrible, and March, which is. So maybe these quick takes aren't all that late after all.