

7 Quick Takes Friday: Thanksgiving highlights, our first family basketball game, preparing for first reconciliation, and Advent is coming

How was your Thanksgiving celebration? Ours was everything I hoped it would be—delicious food, good conversation, and very little effort involved on my part. Next year maybe I will do more than bring the whipped cream, but this year that was about all I seemed to be able to manage. This