

7 Quick Takes Friday: The first camp of the summer, video games at the library, pizza for Father's Day, Cheetos, and a lack of car shopping

Our sons have spent the week at a nature camp, and they've really enjoyed it. That might not surprise you, but I thought one would love it, and one might tolerate it. But they have hiked, made friends, explored a stream, made their own stomp rockets, soap, and clocks, and done service