

Bob McCarty and the challenge of discipleship

I'll be writing more about this later, but Bob McCarty of the the National Federation of Catholic Youth Ministry is conducting a workshop right now that has kids engaged. It's absolutely packed here. McCarty said disciples are called to step up. Disciples don't hide. They step out.

It's an interesting challenge and refresher for teens here. They have a really firm understanding of the duality of discipleship. One said its about following, but leading at the same time.

Others are voicing how tough it is to step up in an era that requires a quieting of faith in schools etc.

I'll add a video later.
