

Bovine adventure

This past weekend I found myself in a standoff with ... cows. I was out looking for some interesting things to photograph and I came across a cow farm.

I parked the car, grabbed my cameras, and headed for the herd of cows along the fence. They all started walking toward me and formed a line along the fence - staring straight at me. A few of them were camera shy and backed off but others wanted their 15 minutes of fame.

