

Can you teach a priest how to Dougie?

Yes, yes you can. Father Marty Nocchi, pastor of St. Ann parish in Hagerstown, Md, traveled with young people from his parish and the Archdiocese of Baltimore contingent. He celebrated Mass for the young people, offered prayers and even got down with his bad self. For those that don't know, The Dougie is a hip hop dance that was out in full force in Madrid. You people all over the world know it. Some kids from Baltimore did it and even modified it for religious purposed. Father Marty and Scott Miller, director of Youth and Young Adults for the Archdiocese of Baltimore, joined in on the fun. Check out this video I captured for The Catholic Review.
