

Director says youths are key to abortion change

During my conversation with October Baby co-director Jon Erwin (he co-wrote and co-produced it as well) and stars Rachel Hendrix and Shari Rigby, which are highlighted on the blog here, Erwin talked about how he came to his own viewpoints on abortion.

October Baby is about an abortion survivor and, ultimately, forgiveness. Erwin says that abortion has become a highly politicized issue during the last 40 years in the U.S. Erwin is hoping his film touches lives and changes hearts. In the video below, he tells me young people hold the key.
