

Glen Burnie parish honors recent retirees

By Catholic Review Staff

Bishop Mitchell T. Rozanski and Monsignor J. Bruce Jarboe, former pastor, were among the well-wishers in Glen Burnie June 9, when Holy Trinity Parish honored two faithful staffers on the occasion of their retirement.

Barbara Hood served the parish for more than 31 years, as office secretary and bookkeeper. She has also volunteered for her home parish, in a number of capacities.

Patricia Stanley served the parish for more than 21 years. She was coordinator of Elementary Faith Formation, and was instrumental in merging Holy Trinity's faith formation program with its cluster parishes, Church of the Crucifixion and Church of the Good Shepherd. She has also been an active volunteer at her home parish.

Hood and Stanley were honored after 5 p.m. Mass with a reception in the church hall.
