

Honus Wagner card finds a new owner

☒ Remember these feel-good stories here and here about the Baltimore-based School Sisters of Notre Dame obtaining a rare Honus Wagner baseball card that went up for auction?

Well, the person who won the auction apparently never paid. Someone else has stepped up, though, paying the amount it took to win the auction.

It seems a Philadelphia cardiologist is now the lucky owner of the card. The School Sisters get the money for their outreaches, too.