

Notre Dame Preparatory School on partial lockdown

By Catholic Review Staff

Notre Dame Preparatory School in Towson was on partial lockdown Dec. 18 after shots were reportedly fired in the Hampton neighborhood, which is located within about a quarter mile of the campus.

NDP officials asked that all students be picked up by 4 p.m. Dec. 18 to give police full access to NDP's property, if required, according to the school's website. All after-school activities, including sports, have been cancelled.

According to news reports, Baltimore County police say someone has barricaded themselves inside a home.

No NDP students, faculty or staff are allowed to leave the main building, according to a school spokeswoman. NDP is on lockdown, per the request of the Baltimore County Police, because of a hostage situation.

Students are attending classes, however, classes are not being held in the Sports and Fitness Center.
