

Political agenda doesn't reflect faith

Anne R. Brusca's letter (CR, Nov. 27) is the perfect example of a Catholic who is ready, willing and able to throw the church under the bus to promote her own political agenda. She states, in part: "The right to life doesn't stop with birth." Maybe, but by supporting the people and political policies that promote the slaughter of the innocent, Ms. Brusca is not reflecting what I assume to be her Catholic faith, and what that faith has taught her in the past and does so until this day.
