

Pop Band “Big Time Rush” to Perform at Bel Air Catholic School

“Big Time Rush,” the pop/rock music group created by Nickelodeon and stars of the television series of the same name, will perform a concert for students of St. Margaret School in Bel Air as part of promotion sponsored by Walgreens and CBS Radio.

Students at the Bel Air Catholic school, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary this school year, submitted text messages promoting their school during a three-week period in August. The school was chosen among 10 schools nationwide as having demonstrated the most school spirit.

The band will perform for approximately 20-25 minutes for St. Margaret students in grades one through eight only. No concert tickets will be available to the general public. The date of the concert has been set and will take place during the current year, but will not be announced by CBS until the day before the concert.

St. Margaret School educates students in grades pre-k through eight and has a current enrollment of 780 students.
