

Repeal proponents lack consistency

I find it hard to believe that there are many so called “Catholic” politicians who will say they are against the death penalty because their faith prohibits the taking of a human life. But when the subject of abortion comes up they say they cannot in good conscience let their religious beliefs stand in the way.

Tony Hall

Pasadena

March 19, 2013 CatholicReview.org