

Something missing at Georgetown

After many, many years of contributing and receiving the Catholic Review, we wish to cancel our subscription to your paper. “Obama lays out economic steps, plans at Georgetown” (CR, April 23) put us over the edge.

We cannot believe you would publish such an article when Mr. Obama requested to cover up the IHS Symbol at Georgetown, and Georgetown University actually agreed to do it in view of his position on abortion. The article would make any reader feel that Mr. Obama’s trip to Georgetown was accepted by all Catholics.

We are terribly disappointed with the Catholic Review. What has happened to “standing up” for our church and what it stands for?
