

St. Margaret competes in Scholympics

Three teams of seventh-graders from St. Margaret School, Bel Air, competed in Scholympics, an annual academic competition held at Institute of Notre Dame, Baltimore. Scholympics is a two-part competition consisting of The Pentathlon (written tests that gauge students' knowledge of science, math, social studies, etc.) and The Decathlon (played similarly to "It's Academic"). Students involved include Sara Turks, Amanda Graziano, Erin Grinstead, Brenda Tester, Jessica Dickens, Megan Battaglia, Emily Tait, Sarah Fetcho and Casey O'Neill. Sarah, Erin and Emily's team placed first out of 26 teams from 10 area schools.