

World Youth Day- less than two weeks left

It's hitting me right about now that I'll be in Madrid, surrounded not only by the city's resident, but more than a million of the world's young Catholics. I've had two years to prepare for this trip and I'm flabbergasted that it's pretty much here. I keep trying to visualize it and I can't. I've done Baltimore and NCYC trips, but this is a whole different animal. I'm crossing a continent
