REACHING OUT TO OUR NEIGHBORS IN NEED

The Annual Appeal raises money crucial to ongoing charitable outreach programs like Catholic Charities, St. Vincent de Paul of Baltimore, and other archdiocesan organizations that help ease financial burdens facing our community’s poorest citizens.

Through a unique partnership between Anne Arundel County, Catholic Charities, and the U.S. Army, Sarah’s House offers emergency shelter, supportive housing, and an array of other services for families experiencing homelessness across the area.

The people on whose behalf we serve are very much alive. They’re the faces of hunger, homelessness, addiction, and poverty, of course, but they’re also mothers and fathers, children, grandparents and grandchildren.

We believe that, as the Good News of the Gospel is conveyed to fresh-faces, the faith will carry them throughout their lives. Our parishes, Catholic Charities, and the archdiocese provide the services and supports that turn hope and possibilities into the lives of the children of our archdiocese, helping them build a foundation for their faith, a faith that will carry them throughout their lives.

In the article, we learn that the Annual Appeal raises $5.2 million, and the rebated funds are used to help those in need.

STRENGTHENING OUR PARISH COMMUNITIES

As much as one-half of every Annual Appeal dollar raised is rebated to parish of its donor, with these rebated funds used in parishes’ capital projects as identified by pastors and their leadership teams.

Vacation Bible School programs, such as the one at St. Isaac Jogues parish, introduce Jesus and his teachings into the lives of the children of our archdiocese, helping them make a foundation for their faith, a faith that will carry them throughout their lives.

Funds raised from the Annual Appeal support a host of parishes in the archdiocese. The image we see is that of an appeal made by parishes and their leadership teams. The image does not show any specific numbers or figures.
